

Abstract of the Disclosure

A cover is provided for use on a computer mouse having an outer shell and a mouse ball projecting from the shell. The cover has top and bottom panels joined together along respective sides. The panels cooperate to form an end opening adapted for receiving the computer mouse inside the cover. The bottom panel defines a ball hole for accommodating passage of the mouse ball through the cover and onto a supporting surface.